

Wormwood Diary: Final Project

Contributor: Matthew Yan

About

The following documentation pertains to the transcription and markup of the Diary of Emma Wormwood (1896). Emma Wormwood was an Illinois schoolteacher who recounts her experiences and conversations throughout the work. The contents covered by this encoding project provide an example of markup for pages 3-10 of her diary.

Rationale

This encoding project seeks to view the work through a contemporary lens. It is key to note that in its project's current state and limited scope that not all elements are currently present. However, this project can be updated in the future as relationships, works, and items are identified -- giving greater context to Wormwood's experiences as various objects, agents, and works enter her life.

Currently, Schematron.sch accounts for <date> entry conventions, as well as flags <name> elements for role – to be updated as more information becomes available to update the project.

Files Enclosed

- Diaries.css
- Diaries.rng
- Diary-to-HTML.xsl
- Schematron.sch
- Wormwood.xml

Viewable final product:

- Wormwood.html

XSLT/HTML Additions:

- <sensitive> - Sensitive terms apparent within the encoded pages of the work link to the OHSU Inclusive Language guide. Other sources can be provided in the <source> attribute to link to them accordingly.
- <marginText> - Marginalia is displayed in superscript, with an additional “margin:” note for reader clarity.

CSS Additions:

N/A

Encoding Guide

Basic XML structure is as follows:

Journal
	Metadata
	sourceInfo
		Title
		Author
		Publisher
	Revisions
		Change
	Entries
		p pb

Other Elements/Attributes appear as follows:

Element Name	Attribute	Description
Name	--	Mention of a person, identified by name
	“Role”	Relationship of an Agent to Emma Wormwood
Occupation	--	Occupation of any given individual, “Name” not required
Sensitive	--	Terms used that may be insensitive within modern contexts.
	“Source”	URL to resources that provide additional information about insensitive language
marginText	--	Text that appears outside/detached from the main body of text
	“Position”	Position in relation to the main body of text/line in which it appears
Date	--	Mention of date of when an event (or events) occurs
	“When”	Specific notation of date, in format: “yyyy-mm-dd”
Place	--	Location mentioned – specifically Cities, States, and Countries
Alternates	--	Alternate terms used for people and objects within the work
Deletion	--	Notation of deletion/attempts at deletion of text within the work
Quote	--	Quotations in reference to speech from others.
Cite	--	Notation of reference to another work. Additional “source” attribute to be provided
Work	--	Specific mention of a work from another agent.